Ongoing through August - "Illustrations From Upcoming Flora of Virginia on Exhibit" at Bland Experimental

Farm. Daily 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM. Dining Room, Bland Experimental Farm. Admission is free. Native plants take center stage in an exhibition of illustrations from the upcoming Flora of Virginia on display now through August in the dining room at Bland Experimental Farm. The Flora of Virginia, to be published in 2012 by the Foundation of the Flora of Virginia Project Inc., will be the first manual of all Virginia's plants since Flora Virginica was published in 1762. This modern flora will be 1,400 pages long and will describe more than 3,500 species native to or naturalized in Virginia. It will feature 1,400 pen-and-ink drawings. Among the illustrations on display are the sweet bay, sweet gum, tulip tree, Kates Mountain clover, and small whorled pogonia, a native orchid. Admission to the exhibition is free, and the exhibit is open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Three artists were commissioned to illustrate the Flora, and all are represented in the show. Lead illustrator Lara Call Gastinger, of Charlottesville, has a B.A. degree in biology from the University of Virginia and an M.S. degree in plant ecology from Virginia Tech. She has exhibited her work widely and received the gold medal for botanical art at the Royal Horticultural Society's February London Flower Show in 2007. Her website is www.laracallgastinger.com. Michael Terry, of Richmond, is illustrating the grasses, rushes, and sedges. He holds an M.S. degree in botany from the University of Richmond. His website is www.materry.com. Roy Fuller, of Fancy Gap, is illustrating the ferns and fern allies for the Flora. With degrees in business, he worked in finance before beginning doctoral research at Wake Forest University. For more information about the Flora of Virginia Project, visit www.floraofvirginia.org or contact Bland Crowder (804-371-5561; bland.crowder@dcr.virginia.gov). The State Arboretum of Virginia is part of historic Bland Experimental Farm, a research field station for the University of Virginia's Department of Environmental Sciences. Bland Experimental Farm is on Route 50 in Clarke County, about 10 miles east of Winchester and 20 miles west of Middleburg. Directions and a calendar of events are online at <http://www.virginia.edu/blandy>.
